CHEE GONG'S DEATH WATCH.

The Condemned Man Tells His Story and Protests His Innocence.

He Says That Lee Toy Put Up the Job to Send Him to the Gallows—His Ghastly Illus- tration of an Execution.

Chee Gong, the condemned Chinese murderer, woke up in his iron cage in the county jail yesterday morning, to realize that he had but one more week to live. Last night the man who was placed over him, a jailor, was on guard. Yesterday morning, after the Chinaman had been turned loose in the big cell in the north tower to take his daily exercise, Jailer Horstle made a thorough search of his cage and cleaned out a pile of trinkets and other stuff that Chee Gong has accumulated during the months he has been in jail. Nothing was found with which the man could do away with himself. Chee Gong was permitted to keep his bibles and the Chinese translations of the Chris- tian scripture.

Chee Gong was pacing the stone floor in the north wing when a reporter called to see him yesterday afternoon. He looked disconsolate and nervous.

"How do you feel to-day?" was asked of him.

"Oh, I feel very sick," replied the Chinaman without stopping his walk.

At first Chee Gong was disconcerted to talk with a white opposite the reporter and entered a white room. He took a seat at an old table and broke out in English but could not easily comprehend the questions put to him. He was calm but nervous, and told the reporter he had nothing to do but to act the part of a stupid actor. He told his story to the effect that he had been to the city to buy the sum of $1000, and in it wrote a letter to Chee who was arrested.

When I was writing the letter a police constable was in the room and looked him in the eye and he never made one sign to show that I was the man who assaulted him.

Chee Gong was in his cell last night and was festinating wildly. As he finished his remarks he stood in front of the table holding a small box with his hands. "I have nothing to do with this," he said. "I am a dead man. They are going to kill me." He then stepped behind the chair. There were a number of Lee Company men in the room, and when he was asked if he was a Lee Company man he replied, "Yes, I am." The men who heard him were shocked.

"Lee Company men are not to be trusted," he said. "They are not to be trusted. They are not to be trusted."

Lee Company men are not to be trusted.

WASHINGTON'S MINING INTERESTS.

Constituted Delegates Petition President Harrison for the Enforcement of the Revenue Laws.

A petition of which the annexed is a copy was received by Mayor D. L. Hubbard yesterday and will be forwarded to President Harrison to-day.

To the President: Your petitioners members of the constitutional convention of the territory of Alaska, who worked in the iron house and told him that they wanted to sleep in its rooms that night, said to him, "Chen and Leung stayed with him that night and the next morning they disappeared." Chen and Leung stayed with him that night and the next morning they disappeared.

When Chen and Leung went down town and telling the police about Chen and Leung he said, "Lee Yick and Chung Ling stabbed Lee Yick, and if you tell a different story, I will fix you." Lee Yick is a man, and the Chinamen are scared of him. He served three terms in San Quentin penitentiary.
